SUSPECTED DEALER KILLED WOMAN AND LEFT BODY TO ROT

A MAN has been jailed for life after being found guilty of murdering a transgender woman in her own home.

Romy Maynard, 28, of Wray Crescent, Finsbury Park, stabbed 22-year-old Chrissie Azzopardi multiple times at her flat, also in Wray Crescent, on April 29, 2012.

He then left the body to decompose for more than a month before a neighbour called police after noticing a smell coming from Ms Azzopardi's flat.

Maynard was jailed for life at the Old Bailey on Friday. He will serve a minimum of 18 years behind bars.

Police believe that Maynard had visited Ms Azzopardi to supply her with drugs.

Investigating officer Detective Chief Inspector Howard Groves, of the Homicide and Major Crime Command, said: "All the evidence pointed to Maynard visiting Chrissie to supply drugs on the evening of Sunday, April 29, 2012.

"What happened next was confined within the walls of her flat with no other witnesses, so we will never really know what occurred.

"But there must have been some kind of disagreement or altercation which resulted in Maynard stabbing Chrissie. He left her there and sadly it was more than a month later before she was discovered."

Officers called to the flat at 12.28pm on June 4 found Ms Azzopardi's badly decomposed body on the bed, her face covered with a pillow. She had been stabbed in the heart and chest.

The Old Bailey was told that Maynard and Ms Azzopardi exchanged texts on April 29 arranging for him to come to her flat with some drugs.

Jurors heard that Maynard's fingerprint was found in the kitchen of the flat and there were partial DNA matches on the pillow and the cardigan the victim was wearing at the time of her death.

Furthermore, a full DNA profile matching Maynard was recovered from a small bloodstain on the duvet on which the victim was lying.

Maynard was arrested on June 14 and subsequently charged with murder.

Shooting scene: Mark Duggan, inset, was fatally shot in Ferry Lane in 2011

Officer 'removed gun from car'

AN independent witness told the inquest at the Royal Courts of Justice into Mark Duggan's shooting by police in Tottenham that she saw a police officer remove a gun from the minicab in which he was travelling.

Miss J, who had come out of her house in the Jarrow Road area to give a neighbour some tomatoes, said: "I heard some bang and when I heard the noise I ran out to the green" [by Ferry Lane].

Mr Duggan was shot on the evening of August 4, 2011, and the incident sparked riots in the borough that spread nationwide. The inquest is trying to establish whether the 29-year-old was holding a gun at the time he was shot.

Miss J told the inquest that she saw a police officer "come out of the car with a gun". She continued: "He had taken the gun out of the car and he placed it on a black cloth in the palm of his hand."

She added that this was "probably about five" minutes after she heard the noise.

The inquest will reconvene tomorrow morning to hear legal arguments in the absence of the jury but in the presence of the public.

Two arrested after linesman hit by flare

TWO men were arrested after an assistant referee was struck by a flare thrown from the Tottenham supporters' section during Spurs' 2-0 Premier League win at Aston Villa on Sunday.

West Midlands Police confirmed they had held a 47-year-old and a 25-year-old after David Bryan was hit on the back of the neck at Villa Park, moments after Andros Townsend had scored his first top-flight goal for Spurs to give them the lead.

The two men have been bailed until November 28.

Mr Bryan was able to continue without needing treatment although the smoke from the flare did delay the restart of the match.

Man, 30, charged over fatal collision

A MAN has been charged with two counts of causing death by dangerous driving following a fatal collision in South Tottenham in March.

Karl Aaron Maddix, 30, of no fixed address, was charged on Thursday and will appear at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court on Monday, November 4.

Maddix was also charged with two counts of causing death while uninsured and two counts of causing death while driving without a licence following the collision in Seven Sisters Road, close to the junction with St Ann's Road, shortly after 2am on March 29.

Shaka Henry, 33, and Gregory Jones, 38, who were both from Islington, died in the collision.

Church up for award

A HARRINGAY church has been shortlisted for a top award to recognise modern architecture.

St Paul the Apostle Church, in Wightman Road, was the brainchild of Inskipp and Jenkins in 1991. It replaced the original church, which had been on the site for more than a century before being razed to the ground by fire in 1984.

Now it is among 24 shortlisted for the Best Modern Churches competition, with the winner to be announced on November 7.

The competition is being held to mark the 60th anniversary of the National Churches Trust.

Fire rips through pub

A DERELECT pub has been badly damaged by fire. London Fire Brigade attended a blaze at the building, in Nightingale Lane, Hornsey, just after 2am on Monday.

It took around an hour and a quarter to put out the blaze at The Nightingale, which closed last year. The fire brigade confirmed that there were "no injuries, but fire damaged the ground floor" of the pub.

The cause of the blaze is under investigation.

1,300 families rehoused here

Housing chief: Ahmet Oykener

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD is facing an ever-increasing strain on council services as close to 1,300 homeless families from other parts of London have been placed in temporary accommodation in the borough.

Following an investigation by the Advertiser it can be revealed that 1,296 homeless households from the neighbouring boroughs of Haringey and Barnet, but also from as far afield as Kensington and Chelsea and Westminster, have been placed in privately rented accommodation in Enfield by other local authorities, which have a duty to house people in need.

Haringey Council is the most prolific and has now placed 618 families in the borough, up from 534 in November 2012.

Meanwhile, inner London authorities Kensington and Chelsea, Islington and Camden have respectively moved 137, 102, and 80 households into Enfield.

Enfield Council, which estimates that around 100 families arrive in the borough from inner London each month as a result of rising rents and benefit cuts, said the figures were worrying due to the strain new arrivals were putting on already stretched public services.

Ahmet Oykener, cabinet member for housing, said: "Enfield generally has cheaper properties than inner London and this tends to attract agencies and landlords who will buy up homes and approach other local authorities, especially if they are willing to pay more – it will still be cheaper than renting properties in their own boroughs."

Last year, the authority embarked on a major primary school expansion programme because of acute demand.

However, at the same time, the accident and emergency and maternity units at Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, are due to shut in the near future.

Mr Oykener added: "We knew the benefit cuts were going to affect us and the adverse effect is the strain it will put on Enfield schools and social care services as people move here with their families."

"It also gives us difficulties in finding properties for our own homeless."

"The effect of all this will be that you will get a corridor effect, with inner London getting rid of its benefit cases but outer boroughs taking the strain."

The council said that at the end of September it had 2,139 households in temporary accommodation, with 182 placed outside the borough.

Mr Oykener added: "The government's belief that if you leave things up to market forces the sector will sort itself out is wrong."

"But we are not just sitting down and complaining. We are looking at providing new council housing because the lack of affordable homes is the real problem."

Mum's fury as daughter still without a school place two months into term

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Frustrated: Karlie Kirwan with her children, Zaiden, one, and six-year-old Kia

Karlie told to go to Waterstones or WHSmith when she asked council about home-schooling materials

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A MOTHER whose six-year-old daughter has been without a primary school place for nearly two months due to an influx of families into Enfield is demanding that the council takes action.

Mum-of-two Karlie Kirwan, 24, of Bowood Road, Enfield Highway, is furious that after moving into the borough with her family in August, her daughter Kia still has not been placed in a Year 2 class.

Karlie, her partner, and her two children, Kia, and one-year-old Zaiden moved from Birmingham to London.

After letting the primary school in Birmingham, where Kia was a pupil, know in March that she would be leaving at the end of the school year, Karlie filled out a school transfer application form.

And, although she did not know the exact address of where they would be living, she knew it would be somewhere in north London.

When Karlie and her family found a home in Enfield in July, they informed the local authority they would have a permanent address by August 5.

However, in the last week of the summer holiday they were told that Kia had been "unsuccessful" in her application for a primary place and had been placed on waiting lists for a number of schools in the borough.

"I was under the impression that hopefully a couple of weeks into term – maybe by the middle of September – she would be in school, but it is nearly half-term and still nothing," said the furious mum.

Adding to Karlie's disgust, when she rang the council and asked for home-schooling materials, she was told that if she wanted to she could buy some textbooks in Waterstones or WHSmith.

"I am her mother, I can only do so much – I am not a trained teacher," added Karlie, "and she is six years old – she needs to be around children of her own age."

When the Advertiser contacted the local authority, Enfield Council's cabinet member for children and young people Ayfer Orhan admitted that there had been "a high number of children moving into the area in recent months" and this had created "great pressure on the availability of primary places".

Although Mrs Orhan admitted that the council could not offer learning resources to children left without a school place, she told the Advertiser: "We are in a position to offer Kia a place at our emergency provision that has been set up to support children and families who are waiting for a school place. This is being managed by the Bowes Learning Alliance."

However, at time of going to press, when the Advertiser contacted Kia's family, they said that they had not received any details about any emergency provision.

Warning: Jeff Rodin

More than 50 per cent of households require assistance to pay rent

ENFIELD has the highest level of private renters needing housing benefit to cover their living costs in the capital.

London's Poverty Profile 2013, a research project carried out by the New Policy Institute on behalf of the Trust for London charity, found that with 56 per cent, Enfield ranked number one for the proportion of private rented households relying on help with rent.

Meanwhile, Edmonton Green – the borough's most deprived ward – ranks fourth highest in London for people claiming out-of-work benefits.

Key findings in the report include an increasing number of working families in the capital living in poverty, with the majority of them residing in outer London boroughs.

In Edmonton Green, where the report also says one in five households are overcrowded, 27 per cent of working-age adults are in receipt of either Jobseeker's Allowance, incapacity benefit or income support.

In seven other wards, including Enfield Lock and Ponders End, it is one in five adults.

Overcrowding statistics, in which Haselbury ward and Upper Edmonton rank highly, further suggest a chronic shortage of affordable larger homes in the borough's poorest areas.

The report found that the housing benefit cap, introduced in 2011, meant that many residents in Enfield had had their housing benefit cut because of the lack of affordable rented properties.

"This is likely to be exacerbated by other caps forcing poorer families to seek cheaper places to live in outer London," it said.

Jeff Rodin, chairman of the board of trustees of the Enfield Citizens' Advice Bureau, told the Advertiser that the service had recorded a substantial increase in demand.

Between July and September 2012, the number of clients who approached the service was 2,649. This rose to 3,500 over the same period this year.

"With more benefit cuts to come," Mr Rodin said, "we are going to get to a stage where we will be unable to deal with demand because funding available for CABs is not being increased."

The report noted that Enfield is a borough with two distinct halves, with seven wards in the east of the borough home to more than 20 per cent of households claiming benefits, while in six wards in the west, the figure is below ten per cent.

Enfield Council leader Doug Taylor said: "What we see nowadays is that many working families are caught up in a perfect storm of low wages and high housing costs.

"Considering Enfield does not have a huge social housing stock, we have lots of households claiming housing benefit.

"What the council needs to do is continue to provide new homes and jobs through regeneration schemes such as Meridian Water."

Mr Taylor added that because of grant damping, which is applied to council funding from central government to protect local authorities from volatile changes, Enfield loses out to the tune of £8million compared to inner London councils.

Crossing 'in wrong place'

Safety concerns: William Hewson, Stanley Natley and other Homewillow Close residents

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

A GROUP of pensioners in Grange Park say that council plans for a new road island will not address their safety concerns as it is being put in the wrong place.

Stanley Natley, 80, and William Hewson, 91, both of whom live in retirement accommodation in Homewillow Close, say they have been asking the council for a pedestrian crossing across The Grange-way for two years, to no avail.

The pensioners, who submitted a petition to the council signed by more than 400 people last year, are angry the authority is now proposing to install a road traffic island in Vera Avenue, next to Grange Park railway station, which, they say, is the wrong place.

Mr Natley said: "We have been asking the council for a new pedestrian crossing for two years. The road is busy and cars drive fast here, and a lot of us elderly residents have mobility issues and difficulty crossing the road.

"There is no point in putting up a road island further up the road as we will have to walk all the way up the road to get across. It defeats the purpose and it's just not what we wanted at all."

Council plans include a "refuge island" in the middle of the road to make crossing easier, the removal of a number of car parking spaces and improvements to the pavement.

Councillors say that consultation has been carried out on the £29,000 project, which has been approved by the Grange Park Residents' Association, is being funded through the Enfield Residents' Priority Fund and Transport for London, which is contributing £6,000, and enjoys widespread support.

Chris Bond, the council's cabinet member for environment, who approved the plans on September 23, said the authority had considered the pensioners' plea for a pedestrian crossing near Homewillow Close, but had decided against it because of the impact it could have had on businesses in The Grange-way.

He said: "There is a day nursery for children near Grange Park station and, given the scale of the problem for these children and commuters crossing the road there, I think we have done quite well here. It's going to look very nice."

Glynis Vince, a ward councillor for Grange, said the plans had gone through the "proper channels".

"The residents' association approved the plans back in March," she said. "There is a small minority of people against the plans, but most people are in favour and it has gone through the proper channels."

"More parking spaces would be lost if it is put in The Grange-way and it is not the right place for it."

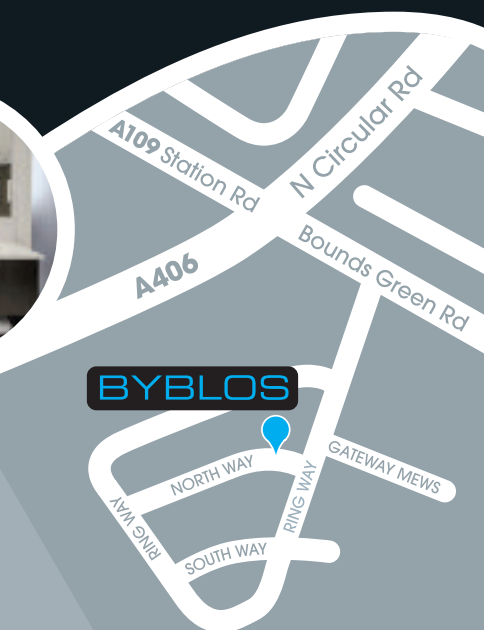

Mr Bond added that work on the scheme would begin this week.

'You must stop this stink'

Smell from sewage plant comes under fire at meeting

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE stench of sewage that seeps across the east of the borough in hot summer months should be kept under wraps, a meeting of councillors, residents and Thames Water officials heard last week.

Last Thursday's meeting of the overview and scrutiny committee at Green Towers Community Centre, in Plevna Road, Edmonton, was convened after Claire Whetstone, who works on the Claverings Industrial Estate beside Deephams Sewage Works, gathered 2,239 signatures on a petition calling for something to be done about the stink that emanates from the plant in Picketts Lock Lane.

Speaking to around 100 residents as well as councillors and Mark Mathews, Thames Water's town planning manager, she said: "In this borough we have a double whammy – we not only have the sewage plant but we also have a waste incineration plant.

"People have to be able to go about their normal, everyday lives without this stench stopping them from opening their windows in summer or taking their children to the local parks."

Thames Water, which runs the sewage plant, last year carried out the first stage of a consultation process over proposals to upgrade the technology at the plant which it believes would reduce the spread of the stench.

Despite assurances from Mr Mathew that the smell will be reduced considerably if the upgrade goes ahead, Alan Sitkin, councillor for Bowes ward, used the meeting to grill the Thames Water representative on how much extra it will cost to completely eradicate the smell from the borough.

Petition organiser: Claire Whetstone outside the sewage works in Picketts Lock Lane

Mr Mathew replied: "We don't think it would be possible to do that, but in terms of covering the whole plant it would cost in the region of £100million."

He added that the current cost of the upgrades is in the region of £200m.

However, Mr Sitkin said: "Dividends paid out by Thames Water to shareholders in 2012 amounted to £231m."

He added that he was confused about why Thames Water could not reduce dividend payouts and thus stamp out the stink completely.

A furious resident echoed Mr Sitkin's words. "Sewage stinks," Evan Hall, of Cornwallis Grove, Edmonton, told the meeting. "You cannot bring all this sewage here and not put anything back into the community. What are you going to do for us?"

A Thames Water spokesman told the Advertiser: "Due to the nature of the sewage treatment process, even covering the entire works does not mean we would be able to eradicate odour completely.

"In the same way as Thames Water's customers expect safe, reliable provision of clean water and removal of waste water, so its owners expect safe, reliable returns on the investments they make in the delivery of high-quality water and waste water services."

Council aims for £2.5million property sale

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

COUNCIL chiefs have rubber-stamped the sale of ten authority owned properties in order to raise cash for new facilities in the borough.

In a move also supported by the Conservative group, the cabinet last week agreed to sell council-owned properties and pieces of land, including the caretaker's house at Nightingale Academy, in Turin Road, Edmonton, a plot of vacant land in Hoppers Road, Winchmore Hill, and a number of residential ground leases in Crofton Way, Enfield.

The council is investing in a number of large capital building programmes, and said that the sell-off was expected to raise between £1.5million and £2.5m.

The cabinet meeting also agreed to works at Palmers Green Library, in Broomfield Lane, construction of a new pupil referral unit in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield, and the compulsory purchase of land adjacent to the joint

Up for sale: Vacant land in Hoppers Road, Winchmore Hill

NHS and council service centre, in Ordnance Road, Enfield Lock.

The authority says that in order to invest in the projects, it is continuously reviewing its stock to see if properties that are surplus to requirements can be sold to raise revenue.

Andrew Stafford, cabinet member for finance, said: "We have to raise the money for capital building projects from somewhere, and with borrowing interest rates at 7.5 per cent, it can make sense to sell off in order to raise cash.

"The more we sell off, the less we have to borrow."

Mr Stafford said that the move did not mean the council was flogging the family silver.

"There is not much point in holding on to properties that provide no revenue," he added.

"All council property that is being sold off will have to be approved by the corporate asset management board, which includes all directors and all cabinet members, who all have to agree."

Michael Lavender, leader of the Conservative group, said: "This makes sense because you are selling off capital in order to buy capital.

"The council should be looking at the rate of return of a property and if that is very low, it makes sense to sell."

It is the fifth time since Labour came to power in 2010 that properties have been put on the market – and about 40 have been sold to date.

A council spokeswoman said the authority would continue to identify properties which could be sold in order to contribute towards the capital programme.

Schools are shut as teachers strike

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

CUTS to teachers' pensions and changes to their pay and working conditions sparked a one-day walkout across the capital last week.

Schools in Enfield where staff are members of the two biggest teaching unions, the NUT and the NASUWT, were closed on Thursday as teachers from the borough flocked to a rally in central London.

The strike action was a second wave of industrial action that teaching unions began in other parts of the UK on October 1 over plans to bring in performance-related pay.

Teachers are against Education Secretary Michael Gove's proposal, saying it would be near-impossible to measure and implement.

Unions are also furious that under new proposals, teachers will be forced to "work for longer for less".

Chris Keates, general secretary of the NASUWT, said that members had not taken the decision to strike lightly.

She added: "No teacher has any wish to inconvenience parents or disrupt pupils' education, but this action is not the failure or due to the unreasonableness of teachers.

"It is the failure and unreasonableness of the secretary of state, who day-in, day-out is disrupting the education of children and young people through his attacks on the teaching profession.

"We continue to appeal to the secretary of state to acknowledge the real and deep concerns of teachers and commit to engage constructively in discussions to seek to resolve the dispute.

"The overwhelming majority of teachers in the region were on strike."

COMMENT

Council must find Kia a school place

THERE is a particular joy about being six years old and setting off for school – even a new one.

At that age the innocence of childhood means that every day is a mini adventure – you have not yet learned to hate mornings, or resent the journey, or being forced to play outside in the winter or even dread homework.

That makes the fact that a six-year-old girl cannot go to school all the more upsetting.

Why does the council think it is acceptable that she will now go into her new class two months behind the rest of her peers?

We know the council is having to deal with a population increase, but that is no excuse.

Children have a right to an education – defined by law – it is not Kia's fault that the council cannot build any new schools.

The local authority's school report should read: could try harder.

We need genuinely affordable housing

THE trend of poverty in London moving to the outskirts is something that was widely predicted three years ago when the coalition government revealed its first plans to cap housing benefit.

Since then, low-paid and insecure jobs, spiralling housing costs and benefit cuts have meant that inner London is becoming a no-go area for those on low incomes, while the situation on the outskirts is worsening because of the influx of poor families.

While London Mayor Boris Johnson bemoaned the spectre of "Kosovo-style social cleansing" in 2010, his administration has done nothing to reverse the trend and the government is putting the banks first through its Help-to-Buy scheme.

What is needed is a radical intervention in the housing market by way of rent caps and allowing councils to build genuinely affordable homes.

Funding boost for education in the borough

ENFIELD Council has received an additional £25million towards its schools expansion programme thanks to the Conservative-led government.

Well done Michael Gove and his team at the Department for Education. Despite the pressures on spending taxpayers' money, Mr Gove has recognised that Enfield's children and their parents badly need school places in the borough.

The Labour council does not want to get caught out with not planning ahead as it did in 2010/11.

I'm sure it's just a question of time before the council sends a thank you letter to the Education Secretary – unless it gets lost in the post.

Shadow cabinet member for schools and children's services

Heads must roll over Pinkham Way fiasco

RE: Michael Lavender's comments ("Two angry men have been vindicated over waste deal", Advertiser, October 16)

They supported what I was contemplating about a powerful whiff of incompetence rather than the anticipated odour of waste emanating from the direction of Pinkham Way.

In 2005 the North London Waste Authority's then head of waste strategy and contracts highlighted the "ultimate" need for three 100,000-tonne waste processing plants.

The report indicated these should be modular in design, such that the construction and operation would minimise expenditure before capacity was actually needed.

It went on to add how the provision of localised facilities would reduce environmental impacts. A strategically competent approach, I thought.

Wind forward little time at all and instead the NLWA plans one of Europe's largest waste plants, on its own larger than these three others combined and of a scale which anticipated a fanciful waste forecast looking ahead a whole three decades.

And to fill this unnecessary surplus capacity pro tem? Importing of waste was acknowledged and the resulting income highlighted as a target in the supporting business plan.

Try that one versus the NLWA's latest advertising blitz to cut back on your waste.

A secret deal to purchase a grade 1 site of importance for nature conservation on which to build the monster then enters the story.

This site was also planned as a new home for Barnet's bin wagon fleet, somehow unable to be housed within north London's largest borough but instead parked up on someone else's concreted-over, environmentally

Pinkham Way: A waste disposal site was planned there important, green open space.

No wonder the deal was secret.

Following last month's announcement of the total failure, a wasted decade with more than £30million of linked spend, the NLWA claimed that last-minute circumstances have allowed it to find a better, cheaper solution with added bonuses to residents to boot as its defensive propaganda rolls forth.

The future is uncertain, which is why after spending so much and so long in planning, you would expect to be able to make a reasonable stab at getting the period before your 30-year plan actually commences even roughly right.

But no, even tomorrow seemingly came as a surprise. Asleep on the job doesn't come close.

When opposition parties combine in attacking an issue, as in this case, you know the problem is real.

Taxpayers expect better things from public servants trusted with their paid time and money than grandstanding on vanity projects.

As Mr Lavender rightly points out, "heads should roll".

Friendship centre open to new faces

THE Southgate and Enfield Friendship Centre recently held its annual meeting.

This was formerly ARP/O50 (The Association of Retired and Persons Over 50), then it became Heyday and now, under its present name, we sadly suffered the passing of our chairwoman Marion Sellers.

A number of changes have taken place on the committee and our new chairwoman is long-standing member and ex-treasurer Jean Higgs.

An interesting programme of events was presented at the meeting and we hope we can be of help in providing social get-togethers for anyone who would like to join us.

Call Jean on 01992 763 071 or email jeanhiggs71@gmail.com, or Pat on 020 8482 2852 or email pat.hiron@blueyonder.co.uk, or Veronica on 020 8888 9739.

We meet on the first Monday of each month, except bank holidays – then the second Monday, at Ruth Winston House, 190 Green Lanes, Palmers Green, from 7.30pm to 9.30pm.

There is step-free access and an entrance fee of £1.50 per night including light refreshments.

Our November 4 meeting should be a lot of fun when Mike Coppins does his version of Play Your Cards Right.

I also run a monthly lunch club at various hostels and this month, October 25, it will be at the newly-reopened The Woodman, in Bourne Hill, Southgate.

And I am taking bookings for Christmas lunch on December 13.

Six of the best for whoever devised these figures

CHASE Farm Hospital, in Enfield, has always had a wide catchment area of patients including those across its borders, particularly from south Hertfordshire.

But the London, Barnet, Enfield and Haringey NHS reconfiguration of hospital services has not included south Hertfordshire residents in its consultation to remove major accident and emergency and consultant-led maternity and children's services from Chase Farm.

You would only have to ask the residents of Waltham Cross, Goffs Oak, Cheshunt, Turnford, Wormley or Cuffley, who have used Chase Farm for years as their own.

One of the leaflets claimed that only six people a day from south Hertfordshire will be affected by the changes to Chase Farm Hospital, but this should be challenged as it is deeply flawed.

'No merit in Chase Farm challenge' – CCG chief

HEALTH bosses have said that they are "extremely disappointed" with Enfield Council's bid to legally challenge the downgrade of Chase Farm Hospital.

Liz Wise, chief officer of the Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group, told the Advertiser that the CCG believes "there is no merit" in the challenge.

The council's decision to embark on a judicial review is based on the grounds that "the pre-conditions for closure laid down by former secretaries of state have not been met" – and it claims the promises of four new primary care centres and improved GP facilities have yet to be honoured.

Ms Wise said: "We are extremely disappointed the council has chosen to take this route. We are equally disappointed there is little reference to patient safety and quality in its claim documents.

"We believe we have done everything we are supposed to have done and are very concerned about the impact on patient safety of any delay."

Downgrading emergency and maternity services at the hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, needed to happen "sooner rather than later", she said. "Hospitals have made it clear they are ready to make changes and GPs agree they should happen to maintain services at a level the people of Barnet, Enfield and Haringey deserve," she added.

The North East London Council of Action, which has been staging pickets outside Chase Farm for almost two years, is organising a protest march to the hospital on Saturday.

"This demonstration is to show the huge anger at these planned closures," said council secretary Bill Rogers.

"We urge the people of Enfield to join in. We have held them off for eight years, now let's defeat the government's plans and keep our hospital open."

Marchers will be assembling at the Chase Side war memorial from 1pm for a 2pm start.

Urgent care centres open up at hospitals

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

NEW urgent care centres are up and running at Chase Farm Hospital and Barnet Hospital, health chiefs have announced.

The centres at the hospitals, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, and Wellhouse Lane, High Barnet, are for those who need medical treatment or advice which is urgent but do not need to visit the accident and emergency department.

They have been established to relieve pressure on emergency services, as part of the £115million Barnet, Enfield and Haringey clinical strategy.

Patients can be treated for ailments including sprains and strains, broken bones, minor burns and scalds and minor head and eye injuries.

The centres, which are open seven days a week between 9am and 9pm, have access to the same diagnostics as A&E and are staffed by doctors and nurses.

Maternity and inpatient paediatric services are due to be moved from Chase Farm on November 20 and the accident

Urgent action: Chase Farm's new centre is up and running and emergency department is scheduled to shut on December 9. Patients will have to go instead to North Middlesex University Hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, or Barnet Hospital.

Chase Farm has been allocated £12m, partly to fund the new urgent care centre, which is currently run in conjunction with the accident and emergency department.

Barnet Hospital has been allocated

£23m to expand and improve maternity and A&E services, as well as provide 200 extra parking spaces.

Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust chiefs say that more than 40 per cent of patients do not need A&E care and can be treated in the new centre.

Cathy Geddes, the trust's director of clinical strategy, emphasised the new service was for patients with urgent care needs and added: "There is no need to book an appointment. People can simply turn up and will be seen by either a doctor or nurse."

"However, they are for patients with urgent care needs. Those who attend A&E or the urgent care centres with minor illnesses or injuries will be sent back to their GPs, or an appointment made for them. This is part of a raft of changes aimed at ensuring people in the area receive the right treatment at the right place and the right time."

There will be a GP out-of-hours service available when the urgent care centres are closed, which can be contacted by calling 111.

Food bill is the lowest

BARNET and Chase Farm Hospitals NHS Trust spent the least on food per patient in the past year of all the hospital trusts in England, new figures have revealed.

The NHS' annual Hospital Estates and Facilities Statistics showed that the trust spent on average £4.15 a day on feeding each patient in 2012/13.

Across England, the average was £9.87.

Alev Cazimoglu, chairwoman of Enfield Council's health and well-being scrutiny panel, said: "Decent food is an essential part of someone's recovery."

"We need to ask whether the quality and nutritional value of the food is being maintained and whether this is one of the areas where the hospital is trying to bring down costs."

The trust said that patient-led assessments showed that 90 per cent of patients were satisfied with the food at Chase Farm. The national average is 84.89 per cent.

Renewed appeal by murder hunt police

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A YEAR on from the murder of a 28-year-old man in Edmonton, police have launched a fresh appeal in a bid to catch his killers.

Officers returned to the scene of the attack at the junction of Goodwin Road and Montagu Road on Sunday to try to jog people's memories about what happened on the night of October 20, 2012, when Teon Palmer was stabbed through the chest just after 11pm.

Mr Palmer's family and friends held a vigil at the scene at 11pm.

Police believe the attackers slashed the tyres of Mr Palmer's blue Vauxhall Astra car before turning on him.

In the days following the attack, police launched appeals for information after they reported that a group of seven black men, wearing hoods and caps, had been seen fleeing the scene.

Police are offering a reward of up to £20,000 for information leading to the identification, arrest and prosecution of those responsible for the murder.

They say they are keeping an open mind regarding the motive.

Detective Chief Inspector Neale Baldock, of the Homicide and Major Crime Command, said: "I believe the key to this investigation is likely to come from within the local criminal fraternity or their associates. In the intervening period, loyalties and allegiances may have changed and I appeal to anyone with information to come forward and speak to us."

Anyone with information can contact police on 020 8345 1570 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Man jailed over shooting of shopkeeper

A MAN has been jailed for his part in a gangland shooting of a shopkeeper last year.

Kubilay Taban, 30, of Ordnance Road, Enfield Lock, pleaded guilty to perverting the course of justice and at the Old Bailey last Wednesday was sentenced to two-and-a-half years behind bars.

He was found not guilty of possession of a firearm.

The shooting happened on September 28, 2012, outside a supermarket in Stoke Newington High Street, in north London.

Rival Turkish gang members confronted each other and the 35-year-old shopkeeper was shot in the hand as he tried to break up the stand-off.

Caner Karakas, 31, of Plumstead, south-east London, was found guilty of possession of a firearm and jailed for eight years. He pleaded guilty to perverting the course of justice and was sentenced to two-and-a-half years, to run consecutively.

Detective Chief Inspector Gary Bruce, of the Trident Gang Command, said: "This attack was carried out by dangerous, violent gang members who had set out armed with a loaded firearm, determined to endanger the lives of other Londoners."

Nocturnal naughtiness: Grovelands Park

Grovelands has got X-rating factor as park sex claims abound

RED-FACED council bosses have admitted they are investigating claims people have been getting up to no good after dark – just metres from the mansion housing the X Factor finalists.

According to a popular website, Grovelands Park, in The Bourne, is “one of our busiest dogging sites”.

While it would appear that the intrepid outdoor enthusiasts have been going about their business undisturbed for a while – now that the eyes of the nation have turned to Broad Walk, in Winchmore Hill, where The X Factor finalists are staying in a £5million mansion, Enfield Council chiefs have admitted that they need to clamp down on the issue.

Cabinet member for environment Chris Bond told the Advertiser: “We’re investigating allegations that couples are sneaking into Grovelands Park to have sex.

“We’ll be asking our parks police to keep a close eye out for any inappropriate behaviour.”

The gates of the park are locked after dark and cars cannot get access to the green space after sunset, but participants insist that this is no deterrent their outdoor activities.

“Dogging is about outdoor sex,” explained one anonymous poster on a dogging website.

Enfield Police insisted they had received no complaints or reports of inappropriate behaviour after dark in the park.

Second man charged with fatal shooting of dad in Southgate

A SECOND man has been accused of the fatal shooting of Zafer Eren in Southgate earlier this year.

Jamie Marsh-Smith, 22, of no fixed address, was charged on Friday with murdering the 34-year-old father outside his home in High Street in April.

Earlier this month, Mr Marsh-Smith was accused of the attempted murder of another man.

Samuel Zeria, 20, from Islington, north London, who was charged with Mr Eren’s murder in April, is due to appear at the Old Bailey on November 11.

Wayne McNeish, 32, from Kilburn, north-west London, who has been charged with perverting the course of justice, appeared at the Old Bailey on October 11.

Another man, aged 20, has been arrested on suspicion of assisting an offender and is on bail.

Facelift: Building work is expected to start at Palmers Green Library next July

Council agrees £4.45m plan to revamp library

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD Council has announced a multi-million-pound spend on another renovation plan – in the wake of IT upgrades in the borough's libraries experiencing widespread teething problems.

Councillors at a cabinet meeting at the Civic Centre, in Silver Street, Enfield, last week signed up to a £4.45million revamp of Palmers Green Library, in Broomfield Lane.

The decision on Wednesday night to spend the millions on the library comes after the council chose to sell off the adjacent Southgate Town Hall for flats earlier this year.

Building work on the new-look library is expected to start next July.

Cabinet member for culture, leisure and localism Bambos Charalambous said that the upgrade would mean a ramped-up free Wi-Fi service and improved public access computers.

The councillor added: "We are absolutely committed to providing first-rate facilities for our communities and upgrading and improving the services we currently have."

Land deal agreed as plans for 5,000
homes gather pace

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE first step in developing a neglected corner of the borough has been agreed by Enfield Council's cabinet.

At a meeting last Wednesday, councillors decided, in principle, to buy a swathe of land between Angel Road, Edmonton, and the River Lee.

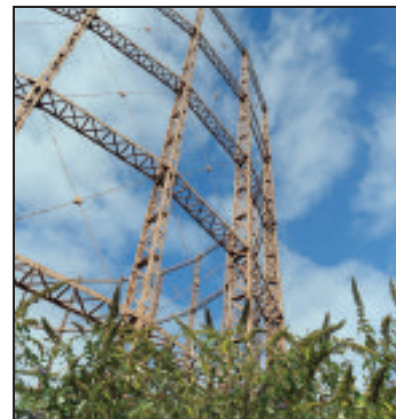

It is believed that buying the land outright from the current owners, who are not specified in council documents, will speed up the process of building the 5,000 houses proposed for the site.

Although the local authority could not confirm who the land owners are, British Gas has an inactive silo on the site.

In the agenda for the meeting at the Civic Centre, in Silver Street, Enfield, council officers wrote in their report: "Given the nature of the land, there is a danger that decontamination and the removal of redundant structures could take longer to achieve than anticipated."

They add later in the report: "In relation to the possible purchase of land, it will be necessary, through the process of due diligence, to establish the extent of contaminated land and to ensure that appropriate measures are taken to ensure its suitability for projected end uses."

The council plans to build 5,000 houses and has already earmarked an education trust to build a two-form-entry primary school on the site, plus an all-through school and a technical college.

Cabinet member for regeneration Del Goddard said that buying up the land would kick-start the scheme. He added: "It is very important we move forward now that the masterplan for this site is agreed, and the decision on whether or not we should acquire land in order to facilitate development of the vital infrastructure at Meridian Water is an important one."

OPINION

Andy Love MP

A view from Westminster

OVER the past few weeks, three of the UK's major energy suppliers have announced price hikes.

SSE will increase prices by 8.2 per cent from November 15, British Gas said prices would go up by 9.2 per cent on November 23 and npower announced a 10.4 per cent price rise for dual-fuel bills.

This means the average household bill will soar by as much as £142 a year.

I'm concerned that many of my constituents are already struggling with the rising cost of living, and now many are having to choose between heating their homes or buying food this winter.

Last month, one in four people aged 50-64 had to dip into their savings to make ends meet, the watchdog Which? found.

It's not fair that when the price of energy increases, energy companies pass this on, but when the price drops, consumers don't see their bills fall. When times are tough, energy companies should be helping their customers – not increasing costs.

We know that under the current government, gas and electricity bills have gone up by £300 for the average household over the past three years.

And the government's failure to stand up to the energy companies means working people are struggling to pay their bills.

Urging consumers to switch providers and

Soaring energy prices forcing many to choose between heating and buying food shop around for the cheapest deal is nonsense when all the major companies are raising prices.

This is why I back Labour leader Ed Miliband's pledge to freeze energy prices for 20 months if Labour is elected in 2015, a move which has been welcomed by consumer groups who are angry at the price hikes over the past few years.

By breaking up the big energy companies, we will all get a better and fairer deal with a typical household saving around £120 and an average business £1,800.

Energy companies have been overcharging us for too long and it's time we rest the energy market so it works for consumers.

Why work hard at maths and English? Just try to win the X Factor instead

THE English are bottom of the class – and we're getting even dimmer. The Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development has published a survey of literacy and numeracy in adults, based on tests completed by 160,000 people worldwide.

Two results stand out: firstly, that English 16 to 25-year-olds came 22nd out of the 23 countries surveyed; and secondly, that in England – and uniquely among the 23 countries – 55 to 65-year-olds tested better than their 16 to 25-year-old compatriots.

We baby boomers are not exactly an intellectual elite. Back in the 1950s and 1960s, schools were in many ways worse than they are now, especially the secondary moderns which most working-class children attended.

But the social context was different. In those days, you knew that you were probably going to end up as a workaday kind of person in a workaday kind of job, much like everybody else in your family or in your street.

Maybe you just mucked about at school, but learning took place in later years, when you went to work. You learned a lot from older workmates – basic skills and also social skills.

Today's young people have been fed on propaganda about "aspiration", on dreams of wealth and celebrity.

Maybe you mucked about at school, but learning took place in later years when you went to work. You learned a lot from older workmates – basic skills and also social skills

Why bother about reading or maths when you are obviously going to win the X Factor?

Why bother about older workmates when you are the star of the show?

Meanwhile, recent educational reports suggest that pupils in the prosperous suburbs are now doing worse at school than their inner-city London counterparts.

But a high proportion of the inner-city pupils are members of ethnic minorities. Many of them have a well-defined cultural identity and enjoy a supportive family network within a wider religious community, all of which helps them to focus and encourages them to work hard at whatever they decide to do – even if they don't win the X Factor.

Voted in: The 16 new members of the Enfield Youth Parliament

Election winners

ENFIELD has a new youth parliament following an election which saw thousands of pupils cast their ballots during the past two weeks.

Teenagers at 15 secondary schools aged between 11 and 19 and disabled young people up to the age of 25, elected 16 new members of the parliament, which will work with councillors over a two-year term on issues affecting young people in the borough.

The borough was carved into four constituencies – Chase, Edmonton, Enfield Lock and Southgate – with 27 candidates standing and more than 9,600 ballot papers completed.

One of those elected in the Edmonton ward is Eda Cazimoglu, 15, a Year 11 student at Palmers Green High School, who lives in Woodstock Crescent, Edmonton and whose mother Alev is a councillor for the Enfield Highway ward.

"Young people often don't have a voice and that's why the youth parliament is really good," said Eda. "I want to set up an area online forum where young people can post ideas and I want to engage with young people about work experience.

"There are cutbacks to youth clubs and extra-curricular activities and that is a real shame. I believe we should speak out about that."

The budding politicians will meet six times a year, attend the council's children and young people's scrutiny panel, as well as the children's trust board, and will be asked to present to a full council meeting.

Speaking during the election results night at Enfield Civic Centre, in Silver Street, on Friday, Bambos Charalambous, cabinet member for culture, leisure, youth and localism, said: "I am proud to see so many young people embrace the challenges of the borough we live in and do so with passion to make a difference to their lives.

"This process teaches you about responsibility, respect and how to articulate yourself when important decisions have to be made about service delivery to young people."

Gary overcomes landslide to complete ironman triathlon

By James Brilliant

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A PREVIOUSLY overweight man from Winchmore Hill has completed a gruelling challenge in abject conditions, losing nearly four stones in the process and describing it as "the single biggest life-changing programme I have ever taken on".

Gary Smith, 40, joined 80 other participants in a University of Hertfordshire study that evaluates how recreationally active men and women aged between 18 and 50 cope with the demands of ironman triathlon training.

He successfully completed the Challenge Barcelona Ironman in a time of 15 hours and 46 minutes, an especially impressive feat considering the conditions he faced.

"The sky went black, we were pretty exposed – hail, torrential rain, flood waters, water up to the top of the pedals on my bike at one point," he told the Advertiser.

"Then a landslide happened and a cliff deposited part of itself in the road in front of me.

"I was the last official finisher, it was a tough race. Unfortunately, there was one fatality at the event, which was very difficult and emotionally charged."

The Ironman Triathlon started with a 2.4-mile swim, followed by a 112-mile cycle ride, before finishing with a 26.2-mile run.

"I took nine hours with the swim and bike and my feet at that point were completely blistered," said Gary, who has trimmed down from 18st 4lbs to 14st 7lbs since becoming more active.

"I took 15 minutes getting dry and then had to talk myself into doing the marathon, which I did."

Gary is using the event as a platform to raise awareness for the Harrison's Fund, a small Surrey-based charity researching for a cure for Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy.

He added: "Duchenne is a terminal disease affecting one in 3,000 boys. It slowly robs them

Running and cycling: Gary Smith also had to complete a 2.4-mile swim when he took part in the Challenge Barcelona Ironman of the use of their muscles until they eventually die, often before reaching the age of 20.

"My personal mantra is I do, because they cannot. Taking on something so big makes you stop and think and take a look at your life. It has forced me to plan my life better."

Celebrating Caribbean influence on British life

By Koos Couvée

koos.couvee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE arrival of the first Caribbean immigrants to the UK will be celebrated through spoken word, dance and music at a Black History Month event on Saturday.

Legacy Of The Empire Windrush, which is being staged at Trinity at Bowes Methodist Church, in Palmerston Road, Palmers Green, will revisit key events in the history of British people of Caribbean descent since the first mass arrival of West Indians to England in 1948 on a ship called the Empire Windrush.

The evening will be hosted by Palmers Green-based sculptor and painter Desrie Thomson-George and will include a keynote speech by the Reverend Prebendary Rose Hudson-Wilkin, the vicar of Holy Trinity with St Philip, in Dalston, and All Saints, in Haggerston, east London, who is also chaplain to the Speaker of the House of Commons and chaplain to the Queen.

The cultural and political contributions of West Indian migrants, who were encouraged to come to Britain to fill shortages in the labour market, will take centre stage in performances by spoken word artist El Crisis and singing groups i-Gospel and Re-Formed, while youngsters from the Tottenham-based charity

Event organiser: Sculptor and painter Desrie Thomson-George

Kori Youth will provide a drumming and drama performance.

Mrs Thomson-George, of Myrtle Road, who volunteers with the Enfield Caribbean Association, said the event was aimed at bridging the gap between generations.

"It's a real family event and there will be something for everyone," she said.

"The evening will include a quiz based around a timeline of events starting with the arrival of the Empire Windrush and other notable events which resulted from that and the impact of Caribbean immigration on social, cultural and political life in Britain."

Mrs Thomson-George said the duality of her own experience and identity, as an African-Caribbean woman living in Britain, is central to her art.

Her paintings often display western influences, while her sculptures are predominantly inspired by west African art.

She added: "All of our histories are intertwined and, therefore, it is very important that young people, and not just young black people, are aware of where we come from and why black people are here and are learning about history comprehensively in order to make sense of what is happening in the world."

The event will start at 6pm. Adult tickets cost £10, tickets for accompanied children under 16 years old are £3 and a family ticket costs £20.

A freshly cooked Caribbean meal is included in the ticket price.

To book a place for the event, contact Ken Allen on 020 8882 4192 or email kencallen207@gmail.com

Lanes' new website - open for business 24 hours a day: lanesproperty.co.uk

Lanes has launched a brand new company website designed to service today's around the clock housing market.

Lanes Director, Kevin Willers, explained: "We've always been at the forefront of online marketing but, in this highly connected world, we feel it is now even more important to keep up to date so we've created a completely new, feature full site for our customers and clients. In fact we actually have two new sites with one version for computers & tablets and the other for smart phones which automatically kicks in without having to download an app!"

Since the late 90's the internet has become part of every-day communication, both personally & professionally and estate agency has been a key sector in the development of online marketing with up to 80% of customers now regularly search for a new home online.

Mobile internet usage in particular has seen a huge increase in recent times and with 8 out of 10 people in the UK having internet access combined with the recent introduction of more affordable tablets and smart phones, more and more people are going online whilst on the move. Many predict that visitors to Lanes' mobile website will outnumber the users on traditional computers.

Kevin went on to say "Ease of use and being constantly up-to-date are the two main features customers seem to like when looking for properties - so this is what we've focused on. The landing page takes you straight into the property search area so up to date properties in a chosen location can be served up immediately. For those who want them, there are numerous useful, built in extras including location maps, Google Street View, slide shows, automated viewing & valuation requests - and the option to save their preferred properties or even post them to their Facebook & Twitter accounts. We're also very excited about the built in page tracking software which allows us to see exactly which properties are getting the interest - an invaluable tool for our staff to use when giving their personal feedback to our vendors"

Earlier this year Lanes also launched its dedicated New Homes website lanesnewhomes.co.uk and the new website for the estate agency & lettings branches completes the company's state of the art online marketing presence. "In conclusion" said Kevin "having an effective online marketing campaign enables us to reach our customers at any time they choose, whether at home in front of the TV or on the train to work - meaning our company is genuinely 'open for business' 24 hours a day"

Lanes have branches in Enfield, Cheshunt & Hertford and can be contacted at enquiries@lanesproperty.co.uk

Want to Make the Perfect Investment?

At Belvoir, we understand that investing in property is a huge decision. That's why we offer free, expert advice on where and what property to invest in.

If you haven't purchased a buy-to-let property before or if you're a seasoned investor who wants to save time or simply gain a second opinion, then the Belvoir buy-to-let service has been designed for you!

With our buy-to-let service we will view a property on your behalf and compile a report highlighting what you may have to do to that property to get it ready for the rental market – both in terms of legislation (e.g. electrics, gas checks), and presentation. We will then advise you on the potential rental return and give you a prediction of timescales and costs to do the work and to get a tenant moved in!

This valuable information is extremely useful in determining the price to offer on a property.

Once the property has been purchased we are on hand to find the ideal tenant for you and to provide full management of the tenancy – helping to ensure that your investment is protected and stays on the right side of the law!

With no involvement in sales, you can be confident that our advice is independent and unbiased.

Please contact me for more information.

DAD, TIME TO GET YOUR TROUSERS BACK

Who wears the trousers in your house? When you're driving the Fiat 500L Trekking, there's only one answer. Dad's trousers, tied around and 1P alloy wheels secure your plenty of Dad points. City Brake Control and Traction Control make for a safer ride. And the kids won't miss what all their mums are easily dealt with by 22 storage compartments. And in the boot, there's ample room for a trailer park.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies.

However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

TOWNSEND THRILLED BY VICTORY AT VILLA

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

ANDROS TOWNSEND claimed that getting the three points was all that mattered after he continued his memorable fortnight by scoring his first Premier League goal for Tottenham Hotspur in their 2-0 victory at Aston Villa on Sunday.

The winger enjoyed a spectacular debut for England against Montenegro earlier this month – scoring and being named man of the match – and was almost as impressive during last Tuesday's 2-0 victory over Poland which saw them book their place in next year's World Cup.

Townsend followed this up by signing a new four-year deal with Spurs on Friday, and he then grabbed the opening goal at Villa Park in somewhat fortunate circumstances with a cross which deceived home keeper Brad Guzan and ended up in the net.

But, while delighted to get on the scoresheet, Townsend insisted that the result was the most important thing as Tottenham bounced back from the heavy defeat against West Ham United in their previous outing.

"The main thing was to get the three points after the loss against West Ham," he said. "It was about getting back to business, and we controlled the second half and deserved the three points."

"We didn't play well against West Ham, a 3-0 home defeat against local rivals is never good, but we replied in the perfect fashion and sent our fans home happy."

"We are at our best when teams have to open up, they can't get ten men behind the ball, they have to go for it and we can pick them off on the counter. We did that in the second half, got the second goal and could have scored more to be honest."

Townsend added: "Obviously scoring for my country on my debut was one of the highlights of my career, but getting my first goal for my hometown club in the Premier League is up there."

"It was a cross and I'm not going to take credit for it, but I've been unlucky in the past, so I'll take that and it set us on the way to a great three points."

"The main thing for me now is to not get carried away, to keep my feet on the ground and keep

Man of the moment: Andros Townsend in action against Aston Villa on Sunday putting in the performances when I get the chance for Spurs."

The result lifted Spurs up into fifth place in the table, and head coach Andre Villas-Boas felt that they thoroughly deserved the three points.

"It was difficult in the beginning because they kept putting long balls in behind us, and we could not get control of the ball," he said. "The first goal obviously gave us the confidence to play, and the way the team came out and played in the second half was great, keeping the ball with lots of mobility, a really attacking, flowing game."

"It was a great performance and we deserved to go 2-0 up. It was the right response after the defeat by West Ham, and it is good to see us near the top."

Borough enjoy a comfortable win in FA Vase

HARINGEY BOROUGH cruised through to the second round of the FA Vase with a 3-0 victory at Tower Hamlets on Saturday.

Borough had been beaten when the sides met in the Essex Senior League earlier in the season, but they seized the initiative from the start on this occasion and deservedly secured the win.

The visitors had already squandered two good opportunities before they took the lead on eight minutes when Dewayne Clarke surged down the right and pulled the ball back for Anthony McDonald to blast home.

Borough continued to enjoy the bulk of the possession, and they doubled their advantage seven minutes before the interval – Dean Fenton beating the offside trap and rounding the keeper before flicking the ball into the empty net from a tight angle.

Soloman Shields should have added a third prior to half-time, but after creating space for himself superbly, he somehow fired wide from six yards out.

Tower Hamlets began the second period in positive fashion, with Borough keeper Ashley Harris needing to be at his best to preserve their two-goal advantage.

The visitors managed to weather the storm though, and they regained control as the contest headed towards its conclusion.

And McDonald set the seal on their triumph by scoring again in stoppage time as he latched on to a through-ball and drew the keeper out to the right of his goal before curling the ball low into the far corner – again from a very tight angle.

Haringey Borough make the trip to Enfield (1893) in the league on Saturday (3pm).

Dawson loving life at Tottenham

MICHAEL DAWSON has revealed that he is enjoying life at White Hart Lane again following a difficult start to last season.

The Tottenham Hotspur captain looked as if he was going to be on his way out of the club in August 2012 when he was heavily linked with a move to Queens Park Rangers after finding himself out of favour with head coach Andre Villas-Boas.

However, the transfer did not happen and Dawson eventually forced his way into the team as he became first choice again.

Now, having just signed a new three-year deal with the club, the central defender insists that he could not be happier to still be at Spurs.

"I've had so many ups and so many downs, and that's what football can bring," he said. "It's a sport that everyone loves."

"A year ago I wasn't in the team – this time last season I'd hardly played two games. But I kept my head down and worked hard. Belief – that's what you've got to have inside."

"Everyone has knock-backs and it's how you bounce back, and thankfully once November came I got in the team and never looked back."

"This is a great football club. I love being here, I love the lads, the fans, everything. It's a great football club and one that is on the up and striving for big things."
